The Baron's Column

Baron Griffin ap Bedwyr

Ahh, spring is in the air. The winter rains have turned to spring rains and a young man's fancy turns to thoughts of...war? Yes indeed, war is in the offing. My crack intelligence team has uncovered evidence that Seagirt is having war practice. This can only mean one thing, the dread forces of Insula Magnus are planning to invade our fair shores. I know it is hard to believe but once again we must prepare to meet and repel these ravaging hordes. But wait, there's more. The armies of Avacal are bent on returning to Tir Righ lands and taking all they can. Obviously with all this combat going on we need a warlord; thankfully we have our upcoming Tournament of Armies to find just such a person. Yes it is a summer full of war, but as anyone from Lions Gate can tell you war is good for the economy.

Speaking of the economy, we are all very aware that the price of everything is going up. Unfortunately the SCA and Lions Gate are not immune. Site rental rates are all going up and this in turn forces us to raise site fees in order to compensate or risk losing money. We have had to do this for our practice fees as well in order to offset rate increases. As well, in July, the membership rate and the NMS are being raised by two dollars. All this is taking a bite out of everyone's pocketbooks. Lions Gate is doing our best to keep site fees reasonable but don't be surprised to see them go up depending on where and what the event is. One way to help is to find cheaper sites to rent, and as I have said before if you know of some place let us know.

Happy New Year to you all.

One of the pivotal battles of the War of the Roses was fought on May 4, 1471. At the battle of Tewkesbury King Edward IV defeated the forces of Margaret of Anjou thereby consolidating his power and halting the wars until his death in 1483.

Practises Move Outdoors

Target Archery practises have moved outdoors until the end of October. Practises are every Monday and Thursday starting around 5:30 PM at the Burnaby Archery Range. To use the range, memberships have to be purchased from either Boorman's Archery, Royal City Archers, or at the range from either Jim Breckenridge, the Burnaby Archery Club treasurer, or the Field Director, our own William Arwemaker. Practises are co-run with The Shire of Eisenmarche.

Heavy practise will also move outdoors with the practise on May 31st. This year, practise will be at the Stetson Bowl rather than at the "Patch of Grass" Bowl. The practise fee is still $5 and the site includes a much larger area, the washrooms, and the Stetson Bowl parking lot. The time is still 7:00 PM – 10:00 PM.

Council Highlights

April 2010

Masonic Hall Update Don't Panic!

The treasurer at the Masonic Hall has assured the Seneschale that there should be no issue with the loss of use of the Masonic Hall during their planned developments.

The Masons own two properties and the current plan is to first build a new Masonic Hall Complex on Carnarvon Street before anything is done with the existing hall on Agnes Street.

The Barony is considered a good renter and customer. Our Bransles and events should not be affected by the development and, at some point, we will find ourselves in a new Masonic Hall.

Financial Policy Draft is ready for review

The sixth draft of the Barony's Financial Policy was posted to the Barony's website for review by the citizens of the Barony.

To meet Principality requirements, an interim version using just the first two paragraphs was passed at Council.

The policy may be found at

<http://www.lionsgate.antir.sca.org/public/Financial%20Policy%20for%20Lions%20Gate%20Draft%206.pdf>

Comments should be sent to Ceara at counce AT shaw.ca.

NSCA Dissolves $$$ for Lions Gate

Dame Elena reported that the Barony's share of the funds for the NSCA dissolution will be around $4000

This gives a small reprieve as the Exchequer report showed a bank balance of just over $6000 and estimated expenses of just over $9000 for the rest of the year.

Bookbinding Bloodbath

Think heavy fighting is where you are going to see the most injuries? Think again.

The Bookbinding workshop suffered its first casualty when Leah of Surrey had a mishap with a woodworking chisel. The resulting wound required not one but two full band-aids!

The Barony will investigate whether we need to add a marshallate system to the Arts and Science community or whether we should implement Anti-Penetration Devices (APDs) as required for combat archery.

Proposed APD for Woodworking Tools

For more information on what was said at Council, check out the Council Minutes for April 2010 now posted at the Barony's website - <http://lionsgate.antir.sca.org/public/council.minutes.shtml>

Ask Doctor Carus

Dear Doctor Carus,

I have heard that medieval fletchers used verdigris where the feathers were glued and tied on an arrow to protect either the glue or feathers from insects. Is verdigris an insecticide? If so, how dangerous is it for me to use in painting or fletching? - Signed Curious Goose

Dear Curious Goose,

Verdigris, from the French "Vert-de-Grèce", aka Viride Aeris, commonly refers to the green patina that gradually forms on copper (or its alloys bronze & brass) from exposure to air, that's identical to the mineral Malachite, and modernly called Basic Cupric Carbonate, with chemical formula  $\text{CuCO}_3 \cdot \text{Cu(OH)}_2$ . However, the Verdigris of medieval commerce was more accurately Cuprum Aceticum or modern Cupric Acetate,  $\text{Cu(OOCCH}_3)_2$ , since it was manufactured (by the women of Montpellier, in the wine region of France, as a monopoly from the 12th to early 20th C.) by greatly accelerating such air oxidation of copper plates with vapours of acetic acid from vinegar, which became incorporated into the product. In Period, Verdigris was used as a green pigment for art and household paint, and a mordant to fix dyes.

Though long known to be poisonous by injection or ingestion (LD<sub>50</sub> Oral - rat – 0.71 g/kg; egg white is an antidote there, though verdigris by itself is also a spectacular emetic; hartshorn or other ammonia source is a test for copper salts, giving a bright blue), and a moderate irritant, higher plants and animals generally resist absorption by mere contact much better than bacteria and fungi: thus ancient Egyptians and Greeks, and medieval Arabs (al-Kindi, 9th C.) and Europeans (Paracelsus, 16th C.), prescribed preparations of verdigris or other copper salts as external antiseptics against eye and other infections; also noted was its ability to preserve wood and paper against mold, and it has been used against plant diseases (especially in "Bordeaux Mixture", since 1885).

Mixed with the wax + resin varnish of fletchings, it would certainly have deterred gnawing by insects and rats (the coppery taste is distinctive and unpleasant), as well as protected from rot, and provided that lovely heraldic Vert that goes so well with garments of Lincoln Green. If you work with it, don't inhale its dust, keep it away from your mouth, eyes and any cuts, wear gloves, wash your hands afterwards, dispose away from lakes and streams, and you should be well.

He at once took a pin from his lapel and was going to prick his flesh, but Tom said:

"Hold on! Don't do that. A pin's brass. It might have verdigrease on it."

"What's verdigrease?"

"It's p'ison. That's what it is. You just swaller some of it once —you'll see."

(from Mark Twain "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer", 1876, Chapter X: "The Solemn Oath")

The Seagirtians are invading! The Seagirtians are invading!

The drums of war sound loudly once more as two great western Baronies, Seagirt and Lions Gate, come together for savage battles of wit and will! After being cast from our shores and banished to an isolated, rain driven, windswept waste(is)land, our shores are plagued once again by our island dwelling neighbours to the west! Come and help us defend our land and crush our enemies on the glorious fields of war and share the joyous beer cheer of victory! We call upon our Barony and friends! Send your finest warriors in all the disciplines of our game to ply their skills in competition, to help collect the beloved war points, raising Lions Gate victorious and drive the wet footed peoples of Seagirt back to the sea and their precious island home!

Remember glorious and honourable people of An Tir,

WAR IS GOOD FOR THE ECONOMY!

Who will win the right to be called Warlord of Lions Gate?

The Barony of Lions Gate invites all disciplines - Heavy, Rapier, Archery, Arts and Science, Heraldry and Bardic, to *A TOURNAMENT OF ARMIES*, from July 30th through August 2nd.

If you want to be named Warlord of Lions Gate, *you* must build your own army to enter the tournament. Be mindful that your army must be able to withstand attacks on all fronts: classic battles on the warfield as well as battles of wits and skill. Who will flock to your banner to support you? Or who will inspire you to support their quest for the title? Sharpen your swords and your wits and be ready to display your prowess and declaim your glory before all!

On Saturday, after a fierce and colourful display of prowess by each army in Court, all armies shall prepare to engage in a wide variety of combat scenarios on fields of forest, open plain, bog, obstacle, ravine and much more. Battle will rage on until there are only four armies left on the field. On Sunday, the four remaining armies will continue in battles most glorious until there remain only two armies on the field. But only one can be victorious.

While the combat units wage war on the field, the artisan units shall engage in battle in their own arena. Each shall seek to cow all others with a display of bardic, heraldic, scribal or other Arts & Sciences to be judged on craftsmanship, authenticity and elegance. Many of these battles can be prepared for well in advance of the Tournament and details will be available soon.

Armies will be built using the following formula:

Armoured: 12 points allowed

- Knights: 3 points each
- Defenders, Champions and Combat Archers: 2 points each
- All other combatants: 1 point each

Target Archery: 4 points allowed

- Grey Goose Shaft, Branch Champions, Defenders: 2 Points each
- All other archers: 1 point each

Arts and Sciences: 3 points allowed

- Laurel: 2 points each
- Branch Champion or Defender: 1 point each
- All other Devisors: free!
  - Note that this is not meant to imply A&S is somehow worth less – rather it is meant as a tool for Warlords to use large numbers of people in their A&S presentation, if desired.

Rapier: 4 points allowed

- Order of the White Scarf, Branch Champions and Defenders: 2 points each
- All other rapier fighters: 1 point each

Each person needs only be paid for once. Their cost is their highest value. A Knight who is also a Laurel costs 3 points.

NOTE: Provisions will be made for unaligned fighters. If you don't have an army by Saturday Morning you will still get to play.

The goal is to have as well represented army as possible. There will be scenarios and points to be won in Target Archery, Arts and Science and Rapier that will count towards ultimate victory.

It is possible for persons to be involved in more than one discipline – Arts and Science specifically comes to mind here.

May Bardic aka May Gamer

Event Steward: Her Excellency Baroness Caitrin ni Cingeadh

May Bardic, or if you prefer, May Gamer was a blast. It is a low key event without any fighting. It is the Barony's picnic and a celebration of the SCA New Year. Like the years previous, the sun came out and shone down on those playing boules or pall mall. We had some great bardic performances and everyone just had a great time just being together.

The competition had three contenders for the Defender title, John Macandrew, Dianova, and me, James Wolfden. Each of us performed two pieces. In addition, Malie and Aelana Cordovera performed single pieces. The Kingdom Bardic Champion told a delightful story during a lull in court.

John did two poems for the competition. The first was a Scottish Flyt. This genre is a form of a poet duel where two poets try to insult each other. The second was an acrostic and is published in this issue. Dianora did an Italian sonnet and the ballad, Barbara Allen. I did a recital from Beowulf and 16th Century dirty joke. Malie sang a song. Aelana told a story that was accompanied by a fully illustrated book.

There were other contests as well. Mary Ostler organized a game tourney designed for fun rather than competition. Agnes Cresewyke won the Glutton Award for playing all five games in the tourney at least three times each. Ylas Anasdoter won the Obsessive Award for being obsessed with playing a single game (carpet boules) over and over. I was privy to watch Malie Rennick win the Righteous Indignation Award for an over the top temper tantrum during a game of Pall Mall.

In the area of A&S, there were some beautiful game boards made up. Jerard won for wonderful decorated Nine Man Morris board and Miranda won in the Children's division. There was also a best game token category and the prize went to Eloise in Children's division and to some wonder salt dough animal tokens by a young woman whose name was not recorded.

Somehow, at the end of it all, I ended up winning the Bardic Defender belt.

There was one standout bardic performance that will be remembered for many, many years to come. Kevin, the outgoing defender told a story about chieftain who had captured the heart of a fey enchantress and how he challenged the chieftain to single combat and took his head. He did this not for the glory or wealth or immortality but for the woman behind the throne. And Kevin proposed to this beautiful enchantress!

And she said yes!

For Newcomers

By John Macandrew

Top your glasses and raise your toast
Invest your love and impart
Remembrances, for those about to start.

Brave New Bardic Defender

Now how did I get myself into this again? I think it started as an idea for a series of articles. Wouldn't it be cool to do a George Plimpton Paper Lion column where I try my hand at some new things like Bardic, Rapier, or Heavy and report on it in the North Wind. The plan originally was to do a single entry. Nice and simple

So that might explain why I am standing in the hall at May Bardic reading over Beowulf for the hundredth time. It doesn't explain why I am mulling over which of the two second pieces I should actually perform. Where did I get talked into actually competing for the Defender title?

John Macandrew goes first reading a poem that he has written. He nails it with a strong delivery. Dianora, another brave new bard, takes up the challenge and wows the judges with an Italian sonnet.

Now it is my turn. No pressure. I elect to perform for the audience. Speak slowly. Speak clearly. Speak passionately. Stumble. Soldier on. Did you know that Anglo Saxon poetry like Beowulf uses alliteration rather than rhyming? Some nice comments from the judges and friends. I made it through round one.

The judges move round two up. It is time to make up my mind what I am going to perform. It is toss-up between a Norse Saga and a last minute dirty 16th Century joke I found on-line. I haven't practised the joke at all but it just feels right. The archer in me says if the shot feels right take it.

John kick starts round two with a brilliant acrostic poem based on the Ten Commandments of the SCA. Dianora sings one of my favourite ballads, Barbara Allen. I am envious of both.

There were a lot less children earlier on. Do I really want to do this one? Are they going to get it. Have fun. Embellish the joke. Make it mine. Work the audience. Move around. Try to be entertaining. I hit the punch line and people do get it. There is laughter. Well, that is some measure of success no matter what else. Again, some nice complements from friends. The Kingdom Bardic Champion talks to me. Did I blow it? No, she liked it. She gives me her personal token as a sign of appreciation. Pretty cool.

There is a stunned look on my face when I realize that I have won. That wasn't expected.

Lionsdale Champions

Event Steward: Her Ladyship Geira inn hárfagra

Site: Name: Donatello's Farm, 25133 Zero Avenue, Aldergrove, BC V4W 2H4

Date: July 23rd to July 25th (site opens 5 pm Friday, closes 3 pm Sunday)

Cost: Adults $15 • Youth 13-18 $10 • 12 and under FREE • Family Cap $40 •
NMS will be collected

The Shire of Lionsdale once again will assemble to behold the challengers compete in becoming our new Champions of Armoured Combat, Target Archery, and Combat Archery! We entreat all those who would bear the honour of our Shire's name, to challenge for the title of Champion of Lionsdale. We also beckon our neighbours and friends from far and wide to show their support for these challengers, and cheer them on through their attendance at our event.

There will be activities of all kinds in addition to the above championships, as we strive to delight those who would grace us with their companionship. Further details can be found at a later date on the Kingdom Calendar and the Lionsdale website.

Merchants are welcome; there is no merchant fee. We would be appreciative of a donation; however if your wares are of great value, we would like to purchase an item of your craftsmanship at cost, so that our new Champions may be enriched as befits their achievement. Please contact the merchant stewards (Tomas de Courcy & Kayleigh de Leis) at your earliest convenience to discuss this, and advise of the space that you require.

Arts and Science Showcase

Welcome to a new feature that I would like to include in every issue of the North Wind – a photo gallery of the various A&S projects that the citizens of the Barony have made. Please send me digital photos of your recently completed or in progress projects. I will try to print some every month.

This month's showcase includes

1. Bedouin Tent by Her Ladyship Mary Ostler (photo by Mary)
2. Sutton Ho Floor covering by Her Ladyship Aline deSeez (Photo by John Macandrew)
3. St. Briggita Coif by Mistress Agnes Cresewyke (photo by Agnes)
